

Having the drive, passion and determination to 'grow' a small venture into a large profitable business is one thing... having the tools and expertise to do it is a completely different matter.

Ian Dickson joined The Directory Group at just the right time. Ian has and continues to add huge value to my company, by offering sound advice on all matters within my business, from staff and systems to planning. He has enabled me to implement changes which have had such positive results, more sales, more systems and a less stressful business owner!

Not only do I know where I am going with my business, I now have an expert who is going to help me along the way... perfect!
