Providing Training and Recruitment Services

1ST May 2008,

Ian Dickson.

If, as a business owner, I can make one recommendation without reservation to anyone considering or already involved in running a business it will be – Listen to Ian.

Ian has proved to be the most valuable asset my company has employed in the last year. His coaching in developing business techniques, understanding cash flow issues and, most valuably for me, effective marketing, has facilitated growth in me as an individual and in the delivery of the services supplied by Steel Security Consultants.

Ian carries with him an entirely justified reputation as a very effective coach and mentor and, on a personal note, it is difficult to imagine anyone whose personality would be better suited. He manages to be both empathetic and still offer that level of discipline that I certainly needed to concentrate me upon the issues that really mattered.
